Nagoya University

HISTORY

The Center for the Studies of Higher Education (CSHE) was established on April 9th 1998 with special focus on the conduct of research and development for quality assurance in undergraduate and postgraduate education.

MISSION

The mission of the Center for the Studies of Higher Education is to make scholarly contributions with international perspectives to strategic issues in higher education.

MAIN GOALS

The Improvement of Education in NU

CSHE supports the design of an education system for Nagoya University (NU) in respect of classes, courses and curricula, by integrating theory and practice.

The Development of a Management System for NU

CSHE supports the reform of the management system of NU, aiming to reinforce the role of the university as a center for higher learning.

Contributions to Higher Education of the Chubu Area

CSHE contributes its research output to the development of the wider higher education community.

PERFORMANCE

◆ Teaching Tips at NU (Japanese)

“Teaching Tips at NU” (online version) was launched in March 2000. This accumulates useful ideas and provides some solutions for various problems that teachers at NU have encountered in teaching activities.

“Teaching Tips at NU” has grown into a printed version standardizing the contents for common use in Japanese higher education Institutions. It was released in April 2001 as a handy book.

Ikeda, Todayama, Chikada, Nakai (2001),
Teaching Tips for Course Design,
Tamagawa University Press.

◆ Going Syllabus (English & Japanese)

“Going Syllabus” is an online tool for course designs based on syllabus making. It is an interactive and on-going system available out of class. Instructors can upload the teaching and learning contents easily as an online portfolio.
